

Galaxy Wonders

A black coat with tiny white embed, tit and bit
Gaze at it to wonder and it leaves you in a fit.

The willing explorers it invites in its own curious way
Only to betray and then put stray.

This strange stage of novas and expiring time
Complete silence around, the planets merely mime.

Just imagine the malady of the alien from Mars
Won't he be feeling the star-sick scars.

Oh, all the songs he sings in his own tunes
Inaudible to us, mercy space and its fumes.

Stars in deep darkness and much more beside
This puzzling mystery, a lot there to hide.

Still, all put to rest and lowering the hype
A simple olive hue, unique in its type.
